THE CLEARING OF MANILA BAY Joint team from the Army, Navy and local government starts the planned weeklong demolition of illegal fishpens and cages on Manila Bay along Bacoor. It will also include the coastal areas of Kawit and Cavite City. The fishpens, some as large as 20 hectares, obstruct the livelihood of the small fisherfolk, the flow of water, pose navigational hazards and pollute the bay. The clearing operation was prompted by a class suit filed by citizens against the government for the continued deterioration of Manila Bay. (Story on Page A18)

SOMEWHERE IN NORTH Cotabato—Armed members of the Ilaga, a Christian group known for its bloody attacks and human rights abuses in Mindanao in the 1970s, have resurfaced in this province, warning the Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF) to stop its atrocities against civilians or face the consequences.

"If the fighting will continue, for every civilian killed, we will execute 10 Moro rebels," Mike Santiago, spokesperson of the Reform Ilaga Movement, told reporters during a press conference yesterday.

Rising civilian casualties alarm CHR, OIC

COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS (CHR) Chair Leila de Lima yesterday expressed concern at the rising human cost of the military offensive against Moro rebels, saying civilian deaths had gone unreported.

CHR monitors have confirmed 20 civilians were killed when troops overran rebel positions on Sunday in Lanao del Norte province, De Lima told the Foreign Correspondents Association of the Philippines.

"The fighting resulted in the killings of almost 20 civilians that had not been covered by the media," De Lima said, stopping short of accusing the military of a coverup. She said that rights monitors were now gathering the names of the civilians killed.

"Civilians are suffering immensely," she said.

The Organization of the Islamic Conference (OIC) on Wednesday condemned violent attacks on civilians by Muslim rebels, but also expressed concern over a government move to scrap an accord that was supposed to be signed with the Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF).

In a statement issued from Saudi Arabia, Ekmeleddin Ihsanoglu, secretary-general of the 57-member OIC, said "wayward elements" affiliated

FG lawyer admits phone call, says it was for GSIS

JESUS SANTOS, A LAWYER OF THE husband of President Macapagal-Arroyo, admits he called up the chair of Presidential Commission on Good Government (PCGG) whose brother is a Court of Appeals justice to ask support for the campaign of the Government Service Insurance System (GSIS) to end the "mismanagement" of the Lopez family in Manila Electric Co. (Meralco).

In a statement, Santos, a member of the GSIS board of trustees, denied that he tried to influence the Court of Appeals (CA) on the GSIS-Meralco case and that he called up PCGG Chair Camilo Sabio at the behest of First Gentleman Jose Miguel Arroyo.

"It's unfair for the First Gentleman to be dragged into this just because I'm one of his many lawyers. I had also served as his spokesperson in the past, but not so in this issue of which he absolutely has nothing to do with," Santos said.

He described as "the right thing to do" his decision to call the PCGG chair on May 30 to lobby for the GSIS case against Meralco being handled by the latter's brother.

Erap prosecutors come together for Villa-Ignacio

By Jocelyn R. Uy

THE PRIVATE PROSECUTORS WHO helped to convict deposed President Joseph Estrada for plunder have gotten together to defend Special Prosecutor Dennis Villa-Ignacio from an alleged ouster attempt by the Office of the Ombudsman.

"We have previously banded in the fellowship for what we believe is righteous. We do so again, this time to defend a good man," said lawyers Arte Sandiel, Mariche Landicho, Anthony Pernito and Christina Lim in a statement yesterday.

The lawyers expressed their support for Villa-Ignacio, who has accused Ombudsman Merceditas Gutierrez of moving to unseat him after an Ombudsman prosecutor filed a criminal complaint against him.

Sandiel, Pernito, Lim and another founding member, Fabillar, compose Villa-Ignacio's defense team.

Ombudsman prosecutor Elvira Chua has accused Villa-Ignacio of misappropriating some P28,000 that she had donated to install water pumps for the victims of Typhoon Milenyo in Quezon province in 2006.

According to Chua, she later discovered that her donation was allegedly channeled to a General Kalinga project by Villa-Ignacio.

The special prosecutor has explained that the donation had been coursed through the Ombudsman's Office and ended up in the OS as the latter had a similar project for typhoon victims. He said the disbursement of the funds was well-documented.

Villa-Ignacio claimed that the complaint was part of a demolition job by Gutierrez and her allies against him and that Chua was being used as a "willing tool" by those who want him out.

VILLA-IGNACIO

The private lawyers denounced the efforts to undermine the authority of the special prosecutor. They said Gutierrez should be focusing her attention on the dismal trust ratings that her office has been getting because of public perception that Villa-Ignacio is being unjustly persecuted.

They cited the Social Weather Stations surveys showing that the positive net sincerity ratings of the antigraft body has been declining, from a high 26 in 2004, 22 in 2007, 9 in 2008, to negative 27 last year.

"The Filipino people deserve more meaningful and relevant actions from the Office of the Ombudsman, beyond press conferences and useless pageantry, beyond pretentious sanctions and ambitious posturing," they said.

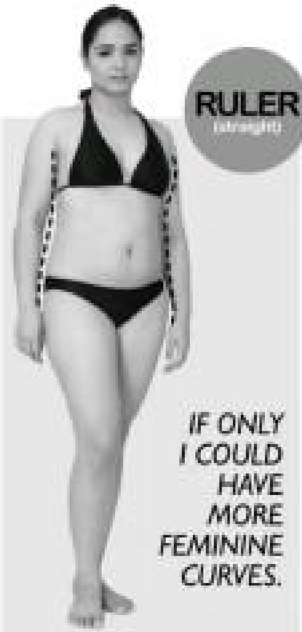

They said the moves against Villa-Ignacio had reduced the issues of professional integrity and public trust to a "popularity contest, where subordinates appear to jostle for a patron, while the real issues are skirted and buried."

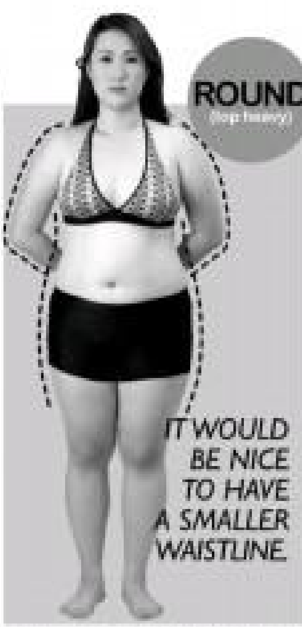

The lawyers also questioned the Ombudsman for her "silence" when the prosecution scored against a "big fish," when the Sandiganbayan and graft court convicted Estrada for plunder in September 2007.

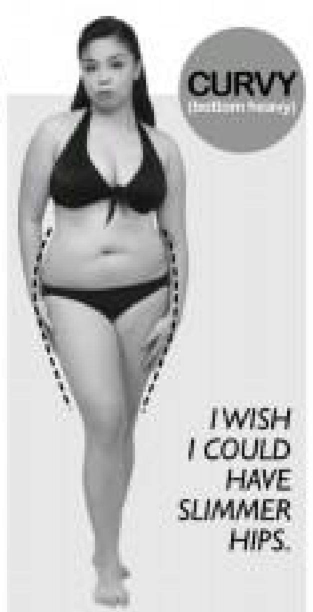

"The values displayed by the special prosecutor especially in times when, as a fellowship prosecuting the Estrada plunder case, we felt alone and abandoned in a struggle we knew to be just, are exactly what the Office of the Ombudsman stood," they said.

"Perhaps, the special prosecutor did carry the burden of the Office alone... and now, this is his reward?" the private prosecutors said.

Anyone can get a better body

Did you know that an apple or a pear could be unhealthy? Quite possible – if the fruit refers to the shape of your body. According to Dr. Hadji Palanan of Marie France, "Body types are determined by the fat distribution. Some people may have a predisposition to store fat in the upper area or bottom area, while others store fat all over the body. Hence the variations of apple shapes, pear shapes or straight figures."

Who you are = your body shape? Genetics have a big role in determining where you are most inclined to store fat in your body. (Take a look at your parents. You might get a clue as to what shape you're more inclined to.) Gender also plays a part in fat distribution because it is also influenced by concentrations of estrogen in the body. For instance, normal pre-menopausal female estrogen levels will cause the body to store fat in the buttocks, thighs and hips.

Categorizing the body types. If you have a large waist and abdomen, a thick neck and wide shoulders, then you are an accurate description of the apple shaped body. This top-heavy body type is linked with health problems such as coronary heart disease, diabetes, stroke, high blood pressure and gall bladder disease.

Pear shapes on the other hand, store fat in the hips and bottom area. They are more at risk for severe menopause symptoms and osteoporosis. If your figure seems more rectangular, and fat is equally distributed throughout your body, you are a straight shape body type. Straight shapes lack feminine curves and look boxy. "Regardless of one's body shape, having excess weight will always have health risks," Dr. Palanan points out.

Dressing for your shape? Anna, 27, has an apple shaped body and has always had trouble finding tops that fit. "When I wear tight-fitting shirts, I get conscious of my upper body. I also avoid tailored garments, especially those with defined waist bands. They only make my stomach look even bigger!" For pear shaped Lucy, 34, trends are not always a style option. "I've been wanting to wear skinny jeans for the longest time," she says. "But they just highlight my heavy hips! So I just stick to boring loose pants." As for straight figured Sarah, 27, "I can't wear dresses that are either too fit or too loose. My body looks almost boyish! If I gain weight or loose weight, it just changes in size, but not in shape."

The good news is that anyone can get a better body - in spite of their shape and size! Villar guards snub Makati police

Another PASG employee in hot water, faces grave threats charge

By DJ Yap and Marlon Ramos

THE BODYGUARDS OF PRESIDENTIAL ANTI-SMUGGLING GROUP (PASG) chief Antonio "Bebot" Villar who were invited for questioning by the police regarding last week's mauling of a businessman at Dusit Thani Hotel in Makati City were no-shows yesterday.

Instead, Virgilio Bruno, PASG legal counsel, met with Makati police chief Senior Supt. Gilbert Cruz to tell him that Villar's bodyguards would appear only once formal charges had been filed against them.

"He said they would wait for the victim to file charges," Cruz said. The police official added that they still did not have the names of Simon Paz's attackers.

Paz, 33, was hospitalized for serious injuries that made him temporarily lose his memory. The incident occurred midnight last Tuesday in the lobby of the hotel, the police said.

Cruz said investigators would coordinate with the Police Security and Protection Office to get the full list of escorts detailed with Villar's security group.

In a related development, one of the hotel guards went to police headquarters yesterday to try to identify which of Villar's bodyguards he saw that night.

Speaking to reporters, the guard, who asked that his name be withheld, said he was outside the lobby when the beating occurred. He said he had seen the CCTV footage and could identify at least one of Paz's attackers.

The guard recalled that prior to the incident, he saw Villar enter the hotel with about 10 security guards. Later, he said he saw some of the guards holding up a badly beaten Paz.

Villar's camp earlier promised to cooperate fully with the police in its investigation.

Cruz said Paz, who remains confined in the Makati Medical Center, could already speak with his family.

"But right now, the family is still unwilling to allow the police to interview him," he said in an interview.

Meanwhile, another PASG employee was arrested after he reportedly threatened to shoot a parking attendant in Quezon City at around 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The police placed Marlon Pirante, 34, of [illegible] District, Quezon City, in their custody after Ronnel Sanoza, 24, accused him of pointing a gun at him.

Sanoza said Pirante, who according to his identification card was a PASG "executive assistant," became angry when he was asked to move his SUV, a Mitsubishi Pajero ([illegible]).

The SUV was blocking the entrance to the [illegible] Garden Flat on Tomas Morato Avenue, Sanoza said. After shouting invectives at him, Pirante took out a gun and pointed it at him, Sanoza added. Police quickly arrested Pirante and recovered a .38 caliber Glock handgun from him.

Alliance Global buying back ₱5B worth of shares

By Elizabeth Sanchez-Lucas

TAN

ALLIANCE GLOBAL GROUP Inc., the holding company of property magnate Andrew Tan, and its property unit Megaworld Corp. are buying back up to P5 billion worth of shares from the stock market.

A share buy-back program is a tool used by companies to enhance the value of their shares that are battered by a bearish market.

According to Megaworld, current market prices do not reflect the true value of the company's shares.

Under the plan, Alliance Global will buy back P3 billion worth of shares while Megaworld will absorb P2 billion worth of stocks over the next 18 months.

Alliance Global has a consolidated cash position of P32 billion, of which 15 percent or P5 billion was set aside for the share buy-back program.

"There are always opportunities in every situation, and in the current environment, we believe we can enhance shareholder value by buying our own shares," said Tan in a disclosure to the Philippine Stock Exchange.

Tan also said the share buy-back was the group's "best option" to counter the current low valuations in the market.

Alliance Global is engaged in property development and investment through Megaworld Corp., food and beverage through Emperador Distillers Inc., and quick-service restaurants through Golden Arches Development Corp., the master franchise holder of McDonald's.

Alliance Global concluded a deal with Star Cruises Ltd., under which the latter invested in Travellers International for the development of two large-scale leisure and entertainment cities in Metro Manila.

Star Cruises, a member of the Malaysia-based Genting Group, is the third largest cruise line operator in the world.

Alliance Global and Star Cruises will infuse $1.33 billion into two tourism-related projects on a 37-hectare portion of "Pagcor City" along the Manila Bay, and in a township project of Megaworld in Pasay City.

Out of the total budget, Travellers International, AGI's venture company vehicle, plans to contribute $1.1 billion. Travellers International will also spend $480 million to build three hotels as well as a themed shopping and entertainment center in Newport City, Megaworld's 25-hectare urban resort complex across from the Ninoy Aquino International Airport (Naia) Terminal 3.

MPIC signs deal on purchase of tollway firm

METRO PACIFIC INVESTMENTS CORP. has signed the sale and purchase agreement governing its acquisition of an effective interest of 67.1 percent in the Lopez-owned toll operator of the 84-kilometer North Luzon Expressway for P12.3 billion.

The deal was also signed by First Philippine Holdings Corp. and Benpres Holdings Corp., the Lopez firms that own the First Philippine Infrastructure Inc. stake being sold. FPII owns First Philippine Development Corp. which, in turn, owns 67.1 percent of Manila Tollways Corp.

The deal will result in MPIC holding a 67.1-percent effective interest in MNTC, the North Luzon Expressway concessionaire, and 46 percent of Tollways Management Corp.

MNTC was granted the supplemental toll operating agreement in June 1998 to finance, design, construct, operate and maintain the toll roads, toll facilities and other facilities generating toll-related income of NLEX. It operates and manages 83.7-km NLEX and the 8.8-km Subic-Tipo Expressway. It holds the right to build, operate and manage Phase 2 of the NLEX expansion.

Also, MPIC will have the option to operate and manage—through the consortium of Egis Projects SA, PDS and TMC—the 93.8-km Subic-Clark-Tarlac Expressway link between Subic Bay Free Port and Clark Economic Zone and to acquire a 10-percent interest in Private Infra Development Corp., which was awarded the concession to extend the NLEX by another 88.5 km from Tarlac to Rosario, La Union. *Elizabeth E. FASTFOOD GIANT JOLLIBEE Foods Corp. said it would complete the acquisition of Beijing burger chain Hongzhuangyuan for $55.3 million (P2.5 billion) in October.

In a disclosure, Jollibee said it had signed an agreement to complete the acquisition of Hongzhuangyuan.

The actual purchase by and transfer of ownership to JFC are expected to take place in October, subject to the approval of China's Ministry of Commerce.

This deal is the final phase of an initial agreement that was disclosed on Sept. 28, 2007.

Under the final deal, subsidiary Jollibee Worldwide Pte. Ltd. will acquire 100 percent of Hongzhuangyuan for RMB 379 million.

The legal due diligence on Hongzhuangyuan was conducted on behalf of Jollibee by PricewaterhouseCoopers while the legal due diligence was performed by JunHe Law Firm. Elizabeth Sanchez-Lucas

Malaysian spicy chicken

By Norma Chikiamco
Contributor

IN CONJUNCTION with the celebration of Malaysia's 51st National Day, the Heritage Hotel in Roxas Boulevard, Pasay is serving a rich buffet of some of Malaysia's most popular dishes such as beef rendang, prawn sambal, roti canai (Malay pastry pancake), satay and gula melaka (sago in sugar and coconut syrup).

The food of Malaysia is a heady blend of aromatic herbs and spices, sometimes with the flavor of coconut milk added for good measure. Until Aug. 31, the hotel's Cafe Rivoire is serving a lavish buffet of Malaysian cuisine for lunch and dinner. Call 5548888 or e-mail [illegible]

Here's a Malaysian dish recipe given by the hotel chefs, which readers may want to try at home. Just pounding the spices together, you can already smell the wonderful aroma.

Cook's tips

- You can also use whole chicken, cut into serving pieces, or use your favorite parts of the chicken such as wings, legs and thighs.
- Brush the surface of the grill with cooking oil before putting the chicken so chicken doesn't stick to the grill.
- You may also brush the chicken with a little oil while it is grilling to give it a nice sheen.
- For a spicier taste, add more chili paste. To make it less spicy, reduce the chili paste.
- Bottled tamarind paste and chili paste are available in the Asian food section or in the [illegible] section of large supermarkets such as Metro, Landmark and Cash and Carry.
- If you can't find bottled tamarind paste, mix 2-3 grams of [illegible] with 1/2 cup water. Press the tamarind to obtain juice. Strain the sauce and serve with the chicken.
- You can use fresh or canned coconut milk or coconut cream.

Ayam Percik (Malaysian Spicy Chicken)

1 1/2 k chicken

For the spices and marinade:

5-6 shallots, roughly chopped

3 cloves garlic, pounded

1 piece ginger about 2 cm long, sliced

1 stalk lemongrass, white part only, sliced

1 tsp cinnamon powder

1/2 c chili paste

3 tbsp tamarind paste, mixed with 1/3 c water

1 1/2 c coconut milk

1-2 tsp salt, plus additional for cooking

1/4 tsp pepper

Cut chicken into serving pieces. Arrange in a marinating dish.

Combine shallots, garlic, ginger, lemongrass, and cinnamon powder. Pound in a mortar and pestle until pasty. Transfer to a bowl and blend in chili paste.

Stir together tamarind paste mixture and coconut milk. Blend with spice mixture. Pour into chicken, making sure chicken is entirely coated with marinade. Cover dish and keep in refrigerator for several hours or overnight.

When ready to cook, preheat grill to medium-low. Drain chicken from marinade and reserve marinade. If desired, season chicken with salt.

Grill chicken for about 15-20 minutes on each side or until fully cooked and slightly charred.

You can also bake the chicken in a 350°F oven for about 20 minutes, then turn the chicken over and bake for another 20-25 minutes or until fully cooked.

To make the sauce:

Pour reserved marinade into a saucepan and bring to a boil. Let simmer until liquid is thick and slightly reduced. Serve with the chicken.

A toast to Chilean wines

NOT LONG AGO Chilean wines were usually consigned to supermarket shelves. As far as Filipino wine lovers were concerned, only French and Italian wines deserved a place of honor in leading hotels and restaurants.

Two women at war– for now

"For the First Time," starring Gutierrez and KC Concepcion, by mounting "Let's Celebrate," a birthday concert for network superstars Marian Rivera and Dingdong Dantes last night at the Araneta Coliseum. Gutierrez is also a favored Ch. 7 talent.

The movie was produced by Star Cinema, production arm of rival network ABS-CBN, and Gutierrez was "loaned out" for the project.

Galvante, GMA 7 senior vice president for Entertainment TV, told Inquirer Entertainment on Tuesday she started getting "rumblings" [illegible] from Bauza two weeks ago. But, she said, "I never replied."

Before this, the women were known to be pals and professional allies.

According to Galvante, "Let's Celebrate" was originally set for Aug. 29 and 30, but the Big Dome was not available on said dates. "We didn't look for another venue because GMA 7 has an existing agreement with the Araneta group," she explained.

'No malice'

"There was no malicious intent to pit Richard against Dingdong," said Galvante. "That's just [illegible] conclusion."

Variety

[illegible] that Bauza also threatened to pull out her son from GMA 7 as a result of the "incident," Galvante said the network is prepared for such an eventuality. "But as far as we're concerned, we have not violated our contract with Richard."

Other industry leaders do not think this "face-off" and other similar situations should be a problem at all.

Regal Films producer Roselle Monteverde [illegible] said it simply means "more choices" for the fans. "Variety is good," [illegible] said.

Concert promoter [illegible], also known as [illegible], did not see either side as suffering any adverse consequence because of the questioned scheduling. "The concert was only [for a night]. Fans have at least a week to see the movie."

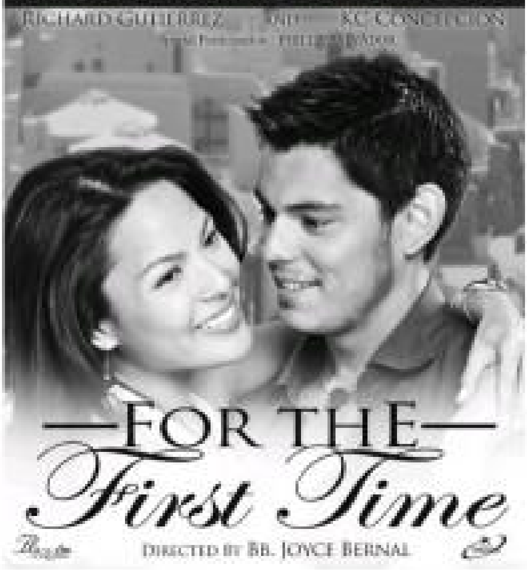

It was not even a problem of resources; the concert was free.

[illegible] said Bauza should not make such a ruckus. "If the movie is good, people will go and watch."
